

Sunday November 26th 2006

Below are some institutional settings likely to render some kind of “education” to the children and other members of the “community” at large. I noted that most of the churches have their own day care centers and sometimes a pre-school or a combination of both.

125th Street

Walking from Broadway to Adam Clayton you will see the following institutions:

Manhattan Pentecostal Church 541 West 125th

Antioch Day Care, Antioch Youth Center, Antioch Baptist Church 515 West 125th

Gethsemane Revival Holiness Center 463 125th

Ecumenical Community Development Organization 443 125th

St. Joseph of the Holly Family Church

Lagree Baptist Church 362 125th

The United House of Prayer for All 276 125th

West 27th Street walking towards Broadway from St Nicholas

PS 154

Harriet Tubman Learning Center

Greater Zion Hill Baptist Church 2365

African Services Committee 479

St. Joseph of the Holy Family School, Day Care and Pre-school

St. Joseph Covenant 406 27th street

St. Mary's Epistcostal Church 516

St. Mary's Place

129th West

Family Living Center 456 129th West

133 West

Manhattanville Community Center 530

Iglesia de dios Pentecostal Church

PS 161

Church of Enunciation

Down on Covenant

The Mott School for the Gifted and Talented

John H. Finley School

St. Joseph the Holy Family School

St. Joseph's Church, St. Joseph's Elementary School

St. Luke Baptist Church